RIDING CULTIVATORS

What Types are Best and Why?

By G. H. Alford

There are several reasons for cultivating crops:

1. To prevent the growth of weeds and grass.
2. To reduce the evaporation of soil moisture to the minimum.
3. To permit the air to freely enter the soil.

Under normal conditions, flat smooth, shallow cultivation will be an attachment that least interferes with the roots of the growing crop best serves the purpose of cultivation.

There are different kinds of riding cultivators, and numerous attachments and types of shovels used on them. Practically every manufacturer of cultivators is putting out good, practical machines and nearly all make different patterns, none of which is adapted to any land found on our farm that is at all fitted to the practical production of row crops.

The farmer with the smooth fields, free of stumps and rocks finds the plain break-up model entirely satisfactory, while farmers who cultivate stumpy and rocky fields will much prefer the spring-tooth and spring-rip styles, which cost a few dollars more.

The late patterns as a rule are more easily operated than the old-style cultivators, but the driver of them must keep well awake and drive his team and carefully operate the cultivator in order to do satisfactory work.

The disk gang, the spring-tooth gang, and the two, three, and four-shovel gangs are used on riding cultivators. Each gang is especially suited to certain conditions, so it is best to buy all three attachments with the cultivator, so that the cultivator may be converted into a spring-tooth, a shovel, or a disk cultivator at any time. These attachments may be purchased with the cultivator at a reasonable additional cost.

The spring-tooth attachment is usually used while the crops are small and on stumpy and rocky ground. The shovel attachment is usually used when the crops are larger and the work to be done is much heavier, and the disk attachment comes in handy when there is grass to cover.

The spring-tooth attachment of any type of cultivator shovel that does not penetrate too deep does fairly good surface work. The spring-tooth attachment and sweep shovels are considered ideal for surface cultivation, especially when the crop is small. These attachments do not penetrate deep, but stir the surface of the soil thoroughly, and move all small weeds and grass, cut few plant roots, and form a soil mulch to prevent the evaporation of soil moisture.

Shovels vary in number, from four to eight for a pair of gangs, and while the larger number is to be preferred for destroying weeds and making a soil mulch, which narrow shovels are used on the gangs they often cause quite a bit of trouble in dragging ground. While the two and four-shovel gangs are often used, the six-shovel gang is the most popular one.

The disk cultivator, usually has three disks on a gang and is useful because it can be used to cover rather large areas of ground when necessary in the cultivation of crops.

If we keep the reasons for cultivating prominently in our minds at all times we will be more likely to do ideal work. For instance, the farmer who uses three-shovel gangs, the shovels only four inches in width, usually gets practically all the grass and weeds behind the cultivator. The root pulling damages the crop and the little furrows and ridges hasten the evaporation of soil moisture.

The farmer using the spring-tooth attachment or six small wheels or the gang gets all of the grass and leaves the ground thoroughly pulverized and smooth behind the cultivator. Of course, we should destroy all weeds and grass and thoroughly pulverize the surface of the soil, but we should also leave the soil as smooth as possible behind the cultivator.

For the average plot and field, the three-shovel gang using four-inch shovels is very popular. But when there are running vines or grasses and weeds to be destroyed, a wide sweep is necessary, and for this reason, as well as for other reasons, it is advisable to buy a set of shovels and a set of sweeps that are interchangeable. When the ground is rather hard, and it is advisable to stir it for two or three inches deep, the shovels may be used, while the sweeps should be used to destroy a thick coat of grass and weeds and to leave the surface of the soil as smooth as possible.

Let us keep the reasons for cultivation in mind and we will not go far wrong when buying a cultivator, the necessary attachments, shovels and sweeps, and in the cultivation of our crops.

Let us keep the reasons for cultivation in mind and we will not go far wrong when buying a cultivator, the necessary attachments, shovels and sweeps, and in the cultivation of our crops.

Let us keep the reasons for cultivation in mind and we will not go far wrong when buying a cultivator, the necessary attachments, shovels and sweeps, and in the cultivation of our crops.

THE RISING FLOOD

What on earth will the college do about the swiftly swelling tide of high school graduates, increasing thousands of whom will be seeking entrance next September? Never before has the country seen anything like the flood of high school graduates now pouring forth from scores and hundreds of high schools—well prepared and eager for collegiate careers.

Already nearly every college and university in the land is carrying all the students for whom there is proper space, teaching faculty and equipment to accept more means merely a degradation of standard in efficiency. This is an injury to all alike. Yet it requires years to elaborate efficient college plant and equipment to meet the needs of a doubled attendance. A potential doubling of attendance within just two or three years, however, seems now to confront the institutions of higher education—few women not less than for men.

This lack of balance between the lower and higher grades of education as regards preparation to handle them effectively will sooner or later be corrected, of course, but in the meantime college presidents will face conditions unknown previously.

It would not hurt if more rigorous and rigid standards for admission to college were set up to be applied wisely. For there are too many of young men and women seeking admission to college, not in a serious intent to study and receive the advantages provided, but merely for the name of the thing and to have a good time spending money away from parental inspection and restraint.

Rather than fill up needed space with wasteful opportunity, these make-believe students should be excluded as far as practicable at the start, or weeded out as promptly as possible after disclosing no appreciation of what they have.

It is very likely that most college authorities will seize the opportunity to exercise selection in admitting applicants and do so with more severity than ever before. It is thus likely to become more than ever a coveted admission to select company—this being accepted for matriculation at college.

In any case, certainly the authorities having in charge the selection in the least. In fact, they will find a more complete stock for the juniors and little girls than for the grownups. The means run from $20.00 to $10.00, according to quality. And, by the way, the merchants have found that the cotton suits are not at all practical, so heavy all-wool jerseys in a light and heavy weight, say you may take your choice.

But to go back to the little folks. You can find a suit tiny enough to fit the toddler who is just walking well enough to paddle around. These are positively fascinating and make either Jimmy or Betty too adorable for words.

If John, Jr., who probably happens to be a manly youth of five or six summers, he will delight in a combination suit with red trousers and a white shirt with "Life Guard" written in red thread across the chest and will feel very much as important as the real article. Another suit for the same fastidious age has a bucket and spade applied on the front of the shirt and has two tiny pockets conveniently placed to hold desirable pebbles that one picks up while playing after the swim, or rather, paddling.

These cost only $1.25 up to $3.00 and are worth that to wear just when Daddy turns the hope on the children in the backyard. So when you go down to buy your suit, see that each child has one also. And be sure to go right away, before stocks are depleted. This hot weather almost makes the supply melt away.

AMONG THE SHOES

The line desire of the shoe and suit makers is to keep cool and the one best way to do this is to make a cooling pool. But before one plunges, a nifty swimming suit must be had, and there are at the very beginning. So down you go today and get the most becoming one you can find. Nor will it be a difficult task, as every shop in the city has an altering line that simply calls one to choose the loveliest and his straight for the nearest swimming pool.

A bathing suit is no longer strictly a garment made for utility alone. Line and color, they are made for becomingness as well and becoming they are. This summer's line is an altering line, entirely different and there is also a trend to combination of colors rather than the plain ones. No longer is the neck plain and round, here you will find the neck cut straight across the front there you will find straps used across the shoulders.

Red is the first choice as to color and, whether you choose a solid red or white stripes, either will make a perfect contrast. You will find a soft jade green and the gray blues running a close second. The leather mixtures are also good; not the ordinary, plain leather of last season but a rose and silver, or a silver and black, a copper with an occasional black thread or blue, with either silver or white.

Tights of one color with the waist and skirt of another will be frequently found also; for instance, if the skirt is of bright red or red you are apt to find the tights of a solid black. Or tan tights with a blue and silver, or it goes until every individual taste is satisfied.

One unusual model is a black with the skirt and bodice of rich purple. Another of silver and white has bubbles in groups of three in the silver, which clearly shows the influence of the printed materials. These are all very practical swimming and bathing suits, but if one so desires regular beach suit can be had.

Now is the younger generation selected in the least. In fact, they will find a more complete stock for the juniors and little girls than for the grownups. The means run from $20.00 to $10.00, according to quality. And, by the way, the merchants have found that the cotton suits are not at all practical, so heavy all-wool jerseys in a light and heavy weight, say you may take your choice.

But to go back to the little folks. You can find a suit tiny enough to fit the toddler who is just walking well enough to paddle around. These are positively fascinating and make either Jimmy or Betty too adorable for words.

If John, Jr., who probably happens to be a manly youth of five or six summers, he will delight in a combination suit with red trousers and a white shirt with "Life Guard" written in red thread across the chest and will feel very much as important as the real article. Another suit for the same fastidious age has a bucket and spade applied on the front of the shirt and has two tiny pockets conveniently placed to hold desirable pebbles that one picks up while playing after the swim, or rather, paddling.

These cost only $1.25 up to $3.00 and are worth that to wear just when Daddy turns the hope on the children in the backyard. So when you go down to buy your suit, see that each child has one also. And be sure to go right away, before stocks are depleted. This hot weather almost makes the supply melt away.

Buy Southern Pine for $18.50 and Sell for $45 Per Thousand

Early in April we had a lumber buyer as a traveling companion in South Carolina and learned from him that he had just bought two cars of 2x10 yellow pine lumber in Williamsburg County, paying $18.50 f.o.b. per thousand for the lumber. We also learned from this gentleman that his firm had fifty-eight lumber-buyers scattered from Arkansas all the way to North Carolina, and that they were expected to ship between seventy and eighty cars a day to the Northern headquarters of the firm. The price paid per thousand feet averaged about $18.50, and the average sales price in the North, after grading, was $45 per thousand. This lumber undergoes a change in price when it is loaded in the South and sold in the North, a change from two to four cents.

We have no reason for doubting the statements made to us by this lumber-buyer. Probably very few farmers having small lots of timber for sale get more than half its market value, and we are sure that cooperative cutting, grading, and marketing of surplus farm timber would not the farmers fully double as much as they are now being paid. Furthermore, a large proportion of the timber being cut in the South is sold "destructively," meaning, the renewal of the timber growth, nor the maturity of the trees for lumbering being considered.

We are poor salesmen. We have been taking what the buyers offer us for our cotton, tobacco, and other farm products for so long that we overlook the market price of the things we have for sale, "destructively" meaning, the renewal of the timber growth, nor the maturity of the trees for lumbering being considered.

It is not here as great an opportunity for the extension service to engage in, as the remarkably successful "carlot sales" of poultry, hogs, and other farm surplus. The most outstanding recent achievement of our agricultural leadership is its marketing demonstrations. There is no field it can enter in which its service is more needed than in the marketing of farm products.

Prof. Roy Wilkes, superintendent of education of Florence county and former resident of Chester, arrived in Chester Saturday with his family.

Prof. Wilkes will teach at the summer school at Wintrop College this year. He states that the crops in Florence and Sumter counties are considerably ahead of the crop in this section and that the farmers here are going after the "big" crop.

Prof. Wilkes is very high in his praise of the Gokar farm and says that every farmer who has been to the Gokar farm and note the work he is doing.

I wish you would call the attention of the people to the fact that there is a child in South Carolina, which probably a child under twelve years of age operating a motor vehicle on the highways of the state, said a citizen to The News last week.

"Traveling the highways is dangerous enough without seeing a baby driving a motorcar," he continued.

The following invitations have been sent out: The faculty and senior class of Pryor Hospital invite you to be present at their Commencement exercises, June nineteenth, fifteen hundred and twenty-five, McPhaden County, Home, Chester, South Carolina.

FIDDLERS' CONVENTION.

Large Crowd Present at Richburg High School Friday Night for Convention—Richburg Has Handsome and Commodious School Building.

Probably the best and largest Fiddlers' Convention ever held in this section was that of Friday night at the new High School building at Richburg.

The auditorium, which has a seating capacity of 360, was filled to overflowing with people from the immediate neighborhood, and for many miles around, quite a number from Chester being present.

The musical numbers were not confined strictly to fiddling. There were harps, banjos, etc., and a variable program was rendered.

Musicians were present from Richburg, Chester, Cornwell, Beahm, Heath Springs, Kershaw, and several other places, and the old time selections were greatly enjoyed by the large crowd.

In addition to the music Mr. Hill, from Lee county, entertained the audience with a variety of stunts.

The new Richburg High school is modern, in every particular, having electric lights generated by a motor. There are six or seven class rooms in addition to the large auditorium; all being fitted in the latest style for the accommodation of the pupils.

Joseph L. Lucas, former watchman at the State House in Columbia, who shot and killed Harry McCaw, clerk of the State Supreme Court, and who has been in jail since the shooting, was out Saturday morning under a bond of $5,000.

There was general satisfaction among the merchants Saturday following the announcement of the new tariff on commodities.

The tax on commodities had been reduced from twenty per cent to four per cent. The sale of commodities had been considerably on the order of the high tax and it is now thought that business in this line will pick up with the merchants.

A message received in Chester yesterday advised that the Abbotsville baseball team was about to leave for the "big league." Laugon and that there was a chance for Chester to take over the Abbotsville franchise. The matter was discussed among local baseball fans.

There was no concerted effort has been put forth toward getting a line-up in the above mentioned league.

It is thought there does not seem to be much desire for league baseball in Chester, it being conceded that professional baseball is too expensive for the size of the town.

County Treasurer A. T. Henry states that the checks covering the year's dues of the Abbotsville baseball team have all been made out and parties who are due a refund may get same by calling at his office in the Court House.

Since money was ready to be refunded only a small percentage of those entitled to same have called.

Mrs. J. A. Gettys died at her home at Roddeys, in York county, Sunday night after an illness of three weeks. She was eighty-three years of age and was a daughter of the late John Roddey and Mrs. Mary Grigg Roddey.

She is survived by her husband, a son, two sons, and a daughter. The funeral services were held at Neely's Creek R. R. church, of which she was a devoted member, yesterday afternoon.

A meeting of the members of the proposed Chester County Club was held in the Court House last Friday evening and a permanent organization perfected.

Mr. Claude D. Crosby was elected president, Mr. J. V. Brookshire, secretary, and Messrs. G. R. Dawson, Thos. Antrim, J. Floyd White and S. R. Latham directors. It was decided to incorporate the club and a committee was appointed to handle this matter.

The site committee reported on several sites but at last they have given more time to the other sites would be available and they decided to get the best place possible for the location of the club. They will report at a future meeting of the members.

Charlotte Owens, Charlotte friend of Miss Pearl Roddian, of Waxhaw, visited yesterday.

She returned from a trip to Philadelphia and New York, and that while north she attended a reunion of the Roddian family at Hillside, N. J., the oldest member of the family present being Mr. J. B. Roddian, a most valuable and interesting history of the Roddian family in New York in which the progeny of the family traced back to 1620. The Roddian came from Ireland and settled in New York, then branched out to all parts of the United States.

Death Of Excellent Servant. The following notice has been sent. The news with the request that same be published:

Earlier death announcement was found dead early last Thursday morning at his home on S. A. Knox's place, at Knox Station.

She had suffered two severe attacks of asthma. Esther was an elderly woman who was well liked and respected by the white people. She was kind and good to every one and her help and favor will be greatly missed by her white friends. She was born and reared at Knox Station and had lived with some members of the Knox family all of her life—always doing her duty and lending a helping hand to all. She was about fifty-five years of age and leaves a husband and nine children, the youngest being a twin girl about four months of age. Her remains were laid to rest in Black Rock graveyard, the funeral being conducted by the pastor, Lafayette Sanders.

DILTZ JENKINS.

A surprise to scores of friends in Chester was the marriage of Miss Beola Diltz, who has been supervisor of music in the Chester schools for the past two years, to Dr. J. G. Jenkins, of Greenwood.

An article appearing in the Spartanburg Star with reference to the wedding is in error. It was a marriage that came as a surprise to their many friends was that of Miss Noll Diltz, daughter of Mrs. Janie M. Diltz, of the city, to Dr. Joseph G. Jenkins, of Greenwood, which was solemnized Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock at the home of Professor and Mrs. John W. Harris, on North Church Street. The Rev. B. R. Turnipseed officiated.

The ceremony was held in decorated in English ivy and blue tulle and many burning tapers. The bride was beautiful in a wedding frock of white lace over white satin and wore a corsage of bride's roses and yellow lilies.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of a few intimate friends and relatives. Mrs. Jenkins graduated from Winthrop college and has been supervising of public school music in Chester.

Dr. Jenkins came up to be best man for the Black-Bright wedding and just a short while before the ceremony he was married himself last acting as best man for Mr. Wright.

Dr. and Mrs. Jenkins left for the mountains of North Carolina for a wedding trip, which they will make their home in Greenwood.

Dr. W. & Anderson will go to Columbia tomorrow morning to attend the State Dental Association and will be gone until Saturday.

Arrangements will be made to send a large delegation of Chester County representatives to the district meeting on July 7th at Clinton, S. C. The directors of the Calhoun Highway Association meet in Wilmington, North Carolina on July 4th. Chester will also send representatives to this meeting.

The Chamber of Commerce is anxious that the Calhoun Highway and the Carolina Short Route be advertised as through the Calhoun Highway Association as possible for they open Chester County to extensive tourist and sectional travel.

Mr. R. E. Hamlin, president of the Calhoun Highway Association, is of interview at the Chamber of Commerce recently stated that there is a bill to be introduced in the North Carolina legislature with 10-100 circulation calling attention to the highway and its condition. Chester and Chester County is to be featured quite prominently in the publication.

The Calhoun Highway Association is organized for the purpose of sponsoring this shortest route from New York to Los Angeles in conference with the board.

Completed with the exception of two or three miles in Halseville township to the river where it will eventually connect with the completed highway in Union County.

The route to Fort Lakin from Chester is completed and in good condition and it only remains for the bridge to be built at Fort Lakin to give a direct connection into Lancaster County. Mr. Hamlin stated that although the organization had been unusually successful in getting the many links of improved highway joined together, there was still plenty of work to be done. The bridge over Halseville remains to be arranged for and then there follows a road paving project.

Chester County people have been loyal boosters of the Calhoun Highway and are expected to continue their support to this important, thoroughfare which will open such a vast extension of the county to extensive travel.

The Calhoun Highway and the Carolina Short Route, which is a really a link in the Great Lakes to Florida Route, are the main branches of traffic from East to West and North to South.

BOARD REDUCES COSMETICS TAX

Levy is Removed Entirely on Ice Cream Sold in Bulk. Board of Appeals Had Meeting for Consideration For Some Time, Governor Says.

Columbia, S. C., June 12.—The cosmetics tax was reduced by the board of appeals from 20 per cent to four per cent, at a meeting held in the office of Governor McLeod today. The tax on ice cream, as sold in bulk, was removed. However, ice cream when sold at soft drink stands will be subject to the usual tax.

The motion for the reduction of the two forms of taxation was made on motion of Representative Carroll Stone, of Laurens.

Following the decision for the reduction, the board of appeals called in Dr. E. L. Wingfield and W. J. Murray, Jr., Columbia drug store, and Frank Keller, of Clinton, who were also in Columbia, and were in conference with the board.

Following the meeting Governor McLeod stated that the members of the commission had had the matter of reducing the cosmetics tax under consideration for some time. They had given the matter thorough study. The reduction was in line with what they believed to be the spirit of the legislature in passing the tax act, the chief executive said.
